Task-2 Technology is thriving by jumps and limits and giving us new paths while keeping ourselves up to date with the latest news and current business. Therefore, a fair amount of people believe, a conventional way of reading the newspaper will be gone. I don't completely agree with it because a conventional newspaper is a simpler and cheaper way to get news. To embark on, there are several reasons why traditional ways to get news are still popular. First, reading the newspaper has become the burning habit of many people. Everyone, whether from the rich or middle class are desperately seen waiting for paper in the morning and enjoy reading it with a cup of tea. Moreover, they are portable, cheaper a simpler way to know about global activities. It can be transported from one place to another in the bag and available at an economical price. It's so handy and simply by continuing the flip pages you can make omniscient. Secondly, there is no need for electricity and other appliances. Moreover, the other attachments are like the cherry on the cake. For example, Hindustan times has more attachments such as women's fashion, career guide, culinary art and so on. However, no doubt technology has given the radical approach to news reading, for example, videos provide a complete and clear view of the reading, in addition to the fact that we can download, share and share to our relatives and friends. Needless to say that technophobic will be having no place in this ever advanced modern world. In conclusion, people's lives are severely affected by advanced versions of technology, but in my opinion it will not be able to pose a threat to the existence of newspapers traditional magazines. NOTE: IMPRESSIONANT INTRODUCTION WITH CORRECT REFORMATION IS THE PRINCIPAL KEY FACTOR TO OBTAIN THE DORITE SCORE IN IELTS SCRIS SARCINE 2 RESPONSE QUESTION. To what extent do you agree or disagree. Children are the backbone of a country. So there are people who tend to believe that young people should be encouraged to initiate social assistance, because it will lead to the blossoming society and individualistic growth of the young people themselves. I also believe that this motivation has more benefits than its disadvantages. For starters, the social work of children can be easily associated with the development of personality, because, during this startup, they tend to communicate with the variety of people, leading to polished verbal skills. For example, if they start convincing rural people to send their children to school, it has to be such a compelling attitude, along with the verbal skills developed to cope with the different types of people there. This improved ability will help them throughout their lives in each arena. Besides, the true values of life would be tolerance, patience, team spirit, cooperation can be learned. Besides, the young mind serves the country with full enthusiasm, which gives the feeling of fulfillment and self-satisfaction. This dignity for themselves fills them with self-confidence and patriotic feeling. Moreover, going and experiencing multiple culture and tradition makes their horizon so broad that it adds a more feather in their cover. However, it is said, did not grow up without thrones. Can the disadvantages of this initiation be ignored? Children go to school, participate in different curricula activities, endure the pressure of colleagues, parents and teachers and in the competitive world, should not be expected to serve society without their own benefits. This kind of pressure could bring resentment to their minds. In conclusion, I believe that the notion of a teenager doing unpaid work is indeed good, but appropriate monitoring and care should be given to avoid unintended consequences. NOTE: ALWAYS FOUR OR FIVE MINUTES PLANNING IDES BEFORE YOU START TO STORY THE RESPONSIONS TO IELTS ABOUT ACTIVITY 2. 3. Do children behave better when they are physically punished or rewarded? Children are the future of the nation and how they should be raised is a moot issue. Some people think they should be exposed to physical punishment while others say constant appreciation is necessary for them. In my opinion, these arguments require proper examination before forming an opinion. For a start, there are many advantages of giving rewards to children in the first place, verbal appreciation and praise can have a magical impact on children's behavior, because when they are appreciated for good behavior they get to know the value of good behavior and try to continue with it. The more positive they are, the more confident they are. On the other hand, children who are subject to physical are seen with a lack of self-confidence. A survey of children's behaviour showed that a child exposed to punitive actions my parents are more aggressive and angry than others of his age. Therefore, beatings in a child can never be On the contrary, it cannot be denied that training for the notorious and ferocious mind is a nut hard to crack, because it is true that the logic rod only for fools. Moreover, some children repeat mistakes even after being warned and punished, this kind of stubbornness forces parents and guardians to give them beatings. Needless to say, over-pampering can have a negative effect on children. In this current scenario, parents have one or two children and this pampering distracts them away from their path. In conclusion, children are tender buds and their cultivation is indeed a major responsibility. Therefore, a fair judgment on behaviour is necessary for a good education. NOTE: IN IELTS SCRIS SARCINE 2 RESPONSIONS QUESTION THE EXAMINATOR WILL ASSESS THE COERENCE AND COESION OF YOUR RESPONSE. THEY WILL JUDGE THE MODE IN WHICH YOUR IDES ARE ORGANIZED AND CONCERNED TO MAKE SENS. Children are the tender freshmen of society and are required to be taught the true values of life. Therefore, some people tend to believe that the sense of competition should be infused into them while others believe that possession of cooperative values is necessary for them. I will discuss the merits and merits of both aspects before reaching any opinion. For starters, are there many reasons why children should have competitive values? Firstly, competition motivates young people to accelerate their efforts to achieve a higher level in education and other activities. They begin to work hard to compete with others and understand the value of hard work. This dedication and hard work helps them to come first everywhere. Second, competitive values inculcated self-confidence and self-independence in children. When participating in activities and competing with others, they are more likely to have a sense of self-realization and fulfillment. They feel worthy, giving them a balanced and peaceful mind. They tend to become self-contained and resulting in the best decision speakability in them. Moreover, the feeling of completion is the need for time. Undoubtedly, in the modern era, people from childhood to adults, face completion, for example, in school, there is a dance competition, racing competition, poetry competition and when growing up adults, face competition in taking a job while taking admission to colleges and even facing competitive in an exam. Thus, a value is very necessary. On the other hand, it is pointless to say that how important it is to inculcate the value of cooperation. This is the only feeling a child can learn teamwork, team spirit, coexistence, tolerance and patience. Moreover, if history is seen it becomes quite obvious that the well-known icons of society are only those who had an attitude of and sacrifice. A selfish human being cannot gain fame in society. Second, incessant preaching for competition can lead to a sense of rivalry for the group of colleagues and others. These rivalry feelings take no time in turning jealousy and personal grudge. A heart full of jealousy for others cannot hold well for themselves and for others. In conclusion, after assessing competitive and cooperative values, I believe that both values have their own importance. Thus, a child should be raised by sharing both equally. Today, art seems to lose value because of less concern by the government, however, i.e. feel that art still requires being given more value than other basic needs of any nation. For starters, are there many reasons why art should be the priority of any country? First, it is the best source of revenue generation for the government. Museums, art galleries, and musical concerts are the place, from which a beautiful income is taken. Fascinating sculptures, beautifully engraved paintings by renowned artists adorn the beauty of museums and attract tourists. Undoubtedly, these tourists are the biggest source of income. These tourists rise in large numbers on these historic sites and monuments that help promote local crafts, resulting in the provision of income for small industries. Secondly, art is the cultural and historical reflection of each country. It is the true asset of every country that brings uniqueness and pride to each country, and if a fund is not allocated by the government, then it will be difficult to keep it alive. However, some art opponents say that a government's spending of money on art hinders the country's development in terms of good infrastructure, road system, efficient transportation system and medical facilities. Moreover, the allocation of money for education and medical facilities definitely reduces the literacy rate and increases the well-being of the nation, which helps a country grow. In conclusion, art is indeed an integral part of each country, therefore the government should fund art museums and promote the values of artists to preserve and maintain the glorified history of the country otherwise artists and art will be lost in oblivion. NOTE: WHERE AS RESPONSE TO IELTS SCRIS SARCINE 2 QUESTIONS DO NOT USE BULLET NOTES AND POINTS. LIMBA MUST BE FORMAL LYVED IN THE SAME TIME ABBREVIES. Do you agree and disagree with this statement? Technology is thriving by leaps and bounds and no doubt this progress is taking a toll on traditional values. I believe that in this technological world traditional values will disappear. To initiate with, there are many reasons why these have no existence in this modern world. First, in this fast world, everyone is assisted by to stay connected with their family and friends. However, in the old days people used to send letters and stand in the long queues on S.T.D. and I.S.D just for a maturity of one call. This advancement in communication modes has proven that traditional skills are worth nothing. Second, technology has transformed the fashion world. Earlier people used to make knitting, stitching, and manual design, but now the machines have made each task easier and more comfortable. To support my point, many of the fashion design students have been posing images of the model themselves for checking the compatibility of colors, but currently this work is done in seconds on advanced multiphase software. Besides, almost no one is seen buying pitcher for cold water because of the invention of refrigerators. In conclusion, an evolution of modern technology is a continuous process, so that traditional time-consuming methods will not be able to maintain their pace with these recent trends, therefore, it is useless and wasted in time to preserve them. NOTE: THE EXAMINATOR EVALUATES THE GRAMATIC PRECISION AND THE STRUCTURE TYPES OF THE PROPOSITION, WHICH THEY USE IN EXPLANATION. IT IS ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT SCRITION SERVICES 2 TIPS ON WHICH EVERY STUDENT SHOULD KNOW ABOUT. To what extent do you agree or not? Art is the outsourcing of an artist's skills. Therefore, there are people who are in favor of giving full freedom to artists; however, others freely oppose this view. In my opinion, freedom is more necessary, but there should be adequate supervision of their work in order to avoid any unpleasant situation. To begin with, there are many reasons why some people are in favor of giving full freedom to artists. First of all, if they are free of any suppression that helps them reveal all the social problems of society without any fear. They expose the cancerous place and ask society to uproot it. Any kind of isolation will not let them express their thoughts. Second, these creative artists are the nerve of each nation because of their extraordinary abilities; if they work freely, they undoubtedly have the potential to make a masterpiece that brings recognition to each country in the world map. However, I believe that full autonomy can have a negative effect on the individual and on society, because artists are often seen painting any unacceptable image, adding any antisocial dialogue to the films that result in communal riots and people's hurt feelings. These kinds of acts cost people's lives. For example, once in the popular film, some Hindu gods are shown bowing. This film not only criticism from Hindu society, but it also sparked communal riots that ended up in the disappearance of some people. They should therefore not be given full freedom. To summarize, although artists are obliged to give full freedom to explore their creativity the government should still ensure this act cannot hurt the feeling of others. NOTE: IN IELTS SCRIS SARCINE 2 QUESTION YOU WILL BE AGAINST THE MARKS WHERE YOU COPY THE DECLARATION OF THE WORDS OF THE QUESTION. 8. Some people believe that art is an essential topic for children at school while others think it is a waste of time. Discuss both points of view and give your opinion. There has always been an angry debate about whether art is an important topic for children in schools or can be neglected in the views of other important topics. I plan to examine both issues in subsequent paragraphs before forming an opinion in the last. For a start, on the one hand in the currency, there are many reasons for supporting other important topics in the children's curriculum; first of all, modern technology, would be computer literacy, has become the need for time. It is one of the most requested skills for a job in each sector. If they spend most of their time in the art of learning they will not be able to face competitions with their throats cut by this scenario. Moreover, knowledge of essential subjects, such as mathematics, science, is very necessary in every field. Second, Art despite being highly appreciated, still does not ensure any career growth, since most areas would be engineering, marketing, it professionals and managers are a graduated and post graduated in these important topics. On the other hand the flip of the coin, art is a creative skill that has a wonderful power of imagination. It gives wings to fantasy and expresses feelings without exchange of words. To illustrate, once I came across with the painting in which the difference between the situation of the rich and the poor was described by painting only. Moreover, music is also a piece of art and functions as a healing therapy in the hectic world. Secondly, artists bring bears to the whole country around the world and ensure that the country's cultural heritage cannot disappear. For this, they are highly paid and appreciated. This kind of respect is no less than a blossoming quarry. In conclusion, in my opinion, the selections of subjects should be left to the students in whom they are interested, because this interest helps them to grow in their lives. NOTE: EVERY Aspirant OF IELTS SHOULD HAVE ALL FOUR TYPES OF THE STRUCTURE OF THE PROPOSITION WILL HELP YOU IN THE YES IELTS SCRIS SARCINE 2 QUESTION OF THE RESPONSE. 9. Nowadays, the way many people interact with each other has changed because of technology. In what ways has technology affected the kinds of relationships that people make? Has this become a positive or negative development? Give reasons for your response and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience. Write at least 250 words. Technology is thriving jumps and limits in each area and communication is no exception. However, this extraordinary change in modes of interaction cannot be considered directly fruitful because of certain disadvantages that spark debate about its positive and negative effects. Negative, engage on, in terms of positive development, one of the prominent benefits is that technology has made communication easier and more comfortable. Currently, people are just a click away from those nearby and loved one because of modern developments, such as Skype, video-conference, WhatsApp and social networking sites, would be facebook. These advances have made everyone social to a great extent. Secondly, there are huge chances in the way letters and telegrams have been sent and in making calls. People used to stand in long queues on the S.T.D and I.S.D stand, but now the advanced mobile phone and gizmos make it easy for everyone to interact freely. On the other hand, certain disadvantages cannot be ignored as people today not only spend a long time in the use of computers, but also do not prefer to meet their friends and relatives face to face leading to a faded relationship. For example, one of my childhood friends preferred to meet me personally on various occasions, it would be a festival and birthdays, but nowadays, she sends messages for which I want and sends greetings on my mail. Even most family members suffer from asphyxia, a disease sparks isolation. This is indeed a worrying problem for imitation relationships. To summarize, despite having numerous disadvantages, no one can afford to turn back from this ever fast modern technology that has to facilitate our lives. Some experts believe that it is better for children to start learning a foreign language in primary school rather than secondary school. Do the advantages of this outweigh its disadvantages? It is true that acquiring language is a complex process. Therefore, it is advisable to teach a foreign language in elementary school than secondary. In my opinion, the merits of this notion have outnumbered them. To get started, there are numerous benefits of teaching a foreign language to children at an early age. First, children have a receptive mind with good grip power. This age is the learning stage of life. Anything is learned at the child's age, can remember more in life. Besides, children are less selfish and not afraid to make a mistake in learning. Because failures are the pillars of success while continuous practice, they can achieve a reasonable level of language. Undoubtedly, a language consists of different dialects, grammatical rules, intonations, denotations, syntax of functions and style. By practicing them, a child can possess unparalleled language skills. Second, everyone is in a crazy race to fly the board in this modern scenario possession of foreign language equip them to communicate freely for easy survival. Moreover, polished communication skills have become a need for the world's cutthroat competition. However, it is also a fact that he goes to school, does his homework, taking part in is in itself a time-consuming activity for students. If they are exposure to regular sessions of language teaching, that will make them pressurize and psychological diseases. This type of burden will prevent their physical, mental and psychological growth. In conclusion, even if the teaching of foreign language can aggravate their existing burden, but the preparation of the young mind for further survival has become mandatory by conferring language skills. 11. Most schools offer a certain type of physical education program for their students. Why is it important? Should physical or optional education courses be required? Physical education programs are of paramount importance in a school curriculum, therefore there has been a number of given opinion, that physical education should be compulsory because of its mental and physical health benefits for a student, however, some oppose it. I will discuss both types of opinions before a conclusion. For a start, no doubt, it has been proven that physical activities are an integral part of healthy living. Students who are exposed to these types of exercise can increase their strength and strength of strength. According to medical science, the strong immune system helps prevent certain diseases such as diabetes, obesity, and indigestion. It not only improves the body's strength, but also makes it a mentally strong. Apart from that, a recent study showed that indulgence in these activities does not let students sneak time for electronic gadgets. In addition, physical programs are very useful in uncutting the values of team spirit, cooperation, and coexistence. Therefore, the range of benefits makes it an inevitable part of the school curriculum. On the other hand, there are the situation and certain circumstances in which a physical programme must be sacrificed. Students with certain disabilities and illness in some way should not be required to be part of this. Their deficiencies prevent them from being physically active and enthusiastic. Indeed, there is the requirement to have it optional, but it is also imperative to understand that they should be equipped with any other educational aspects, such as computer numeracy and soft skills. In conclusion, physical education should not be optional, as it provides physical and mental growth to a student, but the circumstances of the candidates with disabilities should be foreseen. Note:- To address each question in a statement is very advisable for the high score. 12. What are the main reasons and solutions for recidivism? Each country has its own laws to combat crime and criminals. However, nowadays, it is quite obvious that many criminals repeat the crime, even after being punished. It has indeed become a matter of concern due to a number of reasons and according to me, this type of should be addressed immediately. For starters, there is no doubt that these criminals are influenced by many reasons such as social isolation, unemployment, psychological disabilities. Psychological. Lack of education. Unfortunately, they are subjected to humiliation very frequently by the people of society who disturb them mentally and drag them into a constant state of depression. Unbalanced mental state never lets them get away from their criminal records. Moreover, their criminal past leaves them in trouble for unemployment. While they find no way to fulfill both ends, they begin to follow the same path of destruction. Lack of knowledge and skills is another contributing factor. It is true that there is no problem without a solution. The government should rise from a long sleep and initiate rehabilitation programs for them, in which they should be given training for self-employment. The other sustainable approach is psychological nourishment where they can be exposed to regular spiritual and religious lecture. This will help them keep them away from criminal activities. Moreover, the individual should do something at the root level of the grass by remaining sympathy towards them as Gandhi Ji said: "Even the smallest of sins, if not corrected, will grow into a tree that will shade the world." Organize ideas in separate paragraphs. You'll lose points if you don't divide the statement into paragraphs. Every year, several languages die. Some people think this is not important, because life will be easier if there are fewer languages in the world. To what extent do you agree or disagree with this view? Language is the best way to communicate. However, it is seen that many languages disappear in this modern era. There are people who think it will be convenient if there are fewer languages across the globe. I also support this view to a greater extent. For a start, in justifying my notion, first of all, the less languages, the easier communication is. There will be no language barrier and exchange of ideas between people, which will ultimately help in the development of harmonious relationships. Apart from that, it will not only lead to a flourishing relationship between the masses, but also make the political relationship strong, as there will be more chances to exchange scientific research and invention. Moreover, having fewer languages will prove good for students and business people. Survival in other countries will be convenient. Therefore, the disappearance of certain languages seems to have a more positive impact on the world. However, to some extent, it is undeniable that linguistic diversity shows the richness of culture and tradition. Fewer languages means fewer language skills. These languages are the identity of certain communities and tribe, as languages are closely associated with individual culture and the devastation of these vernacular languages will take a toll on diverse culture. In conclusion, although it seems to save regional languages, but barriers to barriers in good psychological relationships between people. Some say the Government should tear down all historic buildings and replace them with modern buildings. Do you agree or not? It is an indisputable fact that the monuments and historical sites of each country are their heritage. Surprisingly, there are some who feel it is less valued and want the government to drag it down. In my opinion, these are the greatest assets of each country and deserve respectful attitudes from citizens. To start, in justifying my notion, each country has its own cultural history that presents ancient civilization. These historic sites are priceless and irreplaceable. This is the only way to evaluate the next generation about our ancestors and their sacrifices. Moreover, visiting these locations will help us learn from our ancestor's lapse and provide a better course of action. In addition, these locations are the best source of revenue for the government. Tourists visit different places and their expenses help the government improve the country's infrastructure. Moreover, tourists show interest in the purchase of handicrafts that lead to the growth of a small-scale industry. Increases the flow of foreign money. Above all questions, it is quite obvious that visiting tourists leads to a good connection between people around the world. In conclusion, I believe that preserving historic sites means saving the country's history. It is important to paramount because of its range of benefits for existing and future generations. Generations.
